

Catherine Logan Eddy Scholarship Winner 2014

Lanh Rahlan graduated from Tupper Secondary in Vancouver this past June. A Jarai speaking Montagnard, he arrived, from the mountains of Vietnam, as a refugee who had little formal education in any language. That was during his equivalent of grade eight school year. With hard work and determination, he has graduated and is now studying at Langara College. Here is his note to me when he received the award.

Thank you so much for awarding me this scholarship and my family and teachers were very proud of me when I told them about this.

I personally want to say a big thank you to the organization for choosing me to receive this award. I am so ecstatic and jubilant for this scholarship and I will use this money for my paying my tuition. I am currently in the Computer Science program at Langara College; moreover, I will be taking the Social Service Worker program in the next semester. My plan is to have a Social Service diploma and certificate because I believed the community had offered me so much already and it's time for me to give back to the community by helping families in need. I will work hard to pursue my dream and one day I want to help people.

*Your Truly,
Lanh Rahlan*
